DEDICATION

"Top Boss"

To Miss Steiner, whom we hold in highest esteem for her valiant and untiring effort to hoist an enthusiastic mine crew over the top to a more brilliant outlook on future activities, we wish to dedicate this honorary post of Top Boss.

THE HISTORY OF OUR HIGH SCHOOL

Education has always been considered a necessity in the building of this community. At first elementary training was sufficient; but time proved the need of higher education, so high school subjects were first offered in the year of 1903. Only freshman subjects were offered then, but later a three years' course was planned. High school and elementary classes were held in the same building; a six room frame structure located where Central now stands, and at the Cass building. A few years later Central became an accredited high school. The first class to graduate from the four-year course was in 1912. There were four in this class.

In the year of 1918 the state qualification laws became so strict that a movement was begun to establish a building large enough to accommodate all the high school of Cass Township. This movement resulted in the erection of a splendid structure which is one of the best equipped and most beautiful school buildings in Indiana, and its enrollment makes it the largest township school in the state. This building was dedicated in 1921 and named Union High. Time has necessitated the addition of new rooms to care for the ever-increasing enrollment. The latest addition was an annex to care for all seventh and eighth grade students of the township.

Cass Township should be proud of Union High School. It has a splendid faculty of fourteen teachers and an efficient superintendent. It also boasts of five junior high teachers. This year approximately 550 students were enrolled at Union in grades from seven to twelve. It has been sending out from fifty to sixty graduates each year. The largest class, containing sixty-seven members, was graduated in 1935. A large number of eighth grade pupils pass into high school each year.

'Twill be the same in 4011.
Oh, we might have a few new tutors,
Just because some found their suitors;
Some get married, others die—
That's the only change in Union High,
In class rooms here we find
Many species of every kind;
Osborn, Leaman, and Miss Rowe
And of course Stegemoller, who rules the show.
Then Haskell Osborn the basketball tutor
Can't say a word to his wife that will suit her.
Purcell and Goble think the Freshies a pest
But that ain't nothin'—so do all the rest.
Now Jessie and Johnnie are the best,
Johnnie married Jessie to give her a rest.
Steiner and Braatz you see
Just the same as they will be,
For as soon as they can pay the "preacher"
They will cease to be a teacher.
Dugger and Mitchell won't hook up yet
Until they find a better bet.
Aikman doesn't like men at all.
But we know that's just a stall.
She likes men as all the gang,
She just ain't seen one she can hang.
But we wish them all success
For now we'll all confess,
'Twas golden days we spent here;
And as to future life we steer,
With education and all that dope,
We'll strive to win with fight and hope.

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of '33, just when the country at large began to emerge from the slough of despondency caused by the greatest depression on record, a gang of one hundred two laborers appeared before the high disciplinary board and timidly but determinedly applied for work in the big mine. When we had presented the necessary reference sheets from the small mine, "Elementary," the scheduled shift in the big mine, "Union High," began. We felt most distinguished in our new work but those of former experience seemed to consider us most insignificant. Following the plans of others, we called council and organized our crew for this shift. We selected Dorothy Usrey "Pit Boss" with Adelia Jones her assistant and Howard McClellan the infallible engineer. Inspired by the promise of unlimited reward, we gradually became skilled in the new methods of applying the picks and shovels. We had tunneled far into the unknown, when authorities closed the plant for four months of rest.

When the familiar old whistle blew for work, some of the fellow workmen had become dissatisfied and had proved themselves inefficient; but we who remained faithful gladly began the second shift. As in previous years we held council and organized the crew. This time we selected Howard McClellan "Pit Boss" with Max Pirtle his right-hand man, and Harold Exline the paymaster. Drilling and blasting with keen accuracy, we found this shift passed quickly, and the advanced workmen had begun to recognize us. However, we looked forward eagerly to the whistle that marked the close of this shift and gave the much needed rest.

When the four months had elapsed, we were a jolly and industrious number of workers ready for the Junior shift. This year Charles Steele, who held the coveted position of "Pit Boss", with Billy DeNeve and Kathryn Robertson, co-helpers, proved equal to the numerous tasks of crew leaders. We found we had drilled through into numerous old entries which offered many new problems. Probably the most difficult one of the year was raising funds to support the reception in honor of the Senior crew who retired this year on their well earned pensions. Needless to say, this undertaking was successful, for the crew talked of it long after they departed for summer rest.

When the local board stated the next date for returning to work, we were a serious minded and fairly efficient crew. Although forty-nine of our original gang had been lost in various ways, the fifty-seven persistent workers advanced boldly into the farthest entries to their assigned duties. At this time Joe Dukes was made "Pit Boss" with Adelia Jones right-hand helper, Marilyn Spinks and Howard McClellan weigh-master and clerk. One of the greatest barriers of this shift was how to raise proceeds to leave a written record of the activities of this crew; but with undaunted courage we pressed on. We were not seeking the so-called rough black diamond of common mines—our goal was the precious diamonds of knowledge so needed in order to better serve self and humanity.

MINE-RUN

What's a school without Juniors
Coming on from year to year,
What would the Seniors do without Juniors!
There'd be no class, O, Dear!

Who'd carry on the old Hi-Y!
It'd have no chance at all.
Look at Osborn's basketball team,
How those boys do play ball!

They sure would miss the Juniors
When it comes reception time;
If it wasn't for the good old Juniors,
The Seniors wouldn't have a dime!

I'm kinda gettin' off my subject,
Giving the Seniors too much "gaff",
You all may think this funny
But I'm just trying to make you laugh!

By GERALD ZAAYER, '38.

All in all and seriously, the Juniors make up a large percent of the school. It promises to be a large graduating class next year. Since our entrance into high school as a freshman class, several of the original number have withdrawn. Some just quit; others have moved from the community; but the same group is still represented.

MORE MINE-RUN SOPHOMORE HISTORY

The sophomore class of this year has a promising outlook for future. It entered Union last year with one of the largest groups ever to be admitted, its attendance numbering over a hundred.

This class boasts of its performances of both girls and boys in the athletic field. It has four prominent players on the first team in basketball, several members on the second team, and the captain of the second team is a sophomore. This class was conspicuous also in football. Its girls' basketball team won the all-school tournament sponsored by the GAC, and two of the girls from this class were runners-up in the finals of the deck tennis tournament.

This class has several representatives in all school organizations, having four members in the Blue Tri and seven in the GAC. Many of its students are in the Glee Club, and several of its boys are in the Hi-Y, and it has several musicians in the school orchestra. Union was also represented in the state-wide first year Latin contest by sophomore girls.

MORE MINE-RUN

The Freshman class boasts an enrollment of eighty-seven pupils. While this isn't a record breaking membership, we still feel we have much for which to be proud. The social life of the Freshman as a class has not been great, yet they have been active in the extra curricular field this year. From the actual number taking part in these activities, interest seems to have increased greatly from the preceding years.

Several members of the Freshman class have joined organizations and clubs of the school. The GAC boasts of nine pledges from this class; three freshman boys are in the Hi-Y, and eight have the honor of making the second team for basketball. As the school years advance this experience should prove valuable in the athletic field.

Not only do the Freshman boys boast of a basketball team, but the girls were well represented in the basketball tournament sponsored by the GAC for all Union girls.

Last, but not least, comes the field of music. In this much talent is shown—both in vocal and instrumental work. The Orchestra and Glee Club shows the highest per cent of membership to be from this, the Freshman class.

Yes, we are very proud of our class!

RAW MATERIAL

On September 8, 1936, one hundred and eighteen boys and girls from every post of Cass Township came to junior high school to be enrolled as seventh graders. Our class has lost one member but has received two new members during the year. One of our ambitions is to add to our enrollment so that the class of '42 will be the largest graduating class in the history of Union High School. Our class is large, active, and energetic. We have made our mark upon the junior high school scholastically, socially, and athletically.

JUNIOR HIGH ACTIVITIES

The main activity in which the student body as a whole participates is the general assembly held every Wednesday from 10:45 until 11:15.

Each teacher is sponsor for a group of children. Together they present the programs.

On Mondays and Fridays, at the same time, they meet in their home rooms.

While nothing elaborate has been attempted, it has been worthwhile because it has given the children experience in appearing before audiences and has developed confidence in them to do things, which is a vital part of life.

SENIOR PROPHECY

Nearing the peak of exasperation after a heated quarrel with my uncomparably strong-minded husband, James Ragsdale, over the so-called tremendous price I had willingly paid for my new mink coat, I prepared to invade the fashionable center of Philadelphia's most prominent business section in quest of a suitable head gear to match my prized coat. As I hurried merrily on my way in the town car, which my chauffeur, Leo Hope, threaded skillfully through the steady stream of traffic, I decided to test the fabulous stories concerning the luxurious Marlowe Salon. Bold from the recent encounter, I proceeded to step upon the soft plush floor mat at the spacious entrance and was on the verge of proceeding further into the Salon, when I was attracted by a huge window display of gorgeous wearing apparel being exhibited by living models. To my utter surprise, one of the charming models was Marilyn Spinks, a classmate of '37. Although I had not cared for the girl during high school days, I decided instantly to learn through her what I had wanted to know for years—the fate of each member of my high school class.

Through the influence of my socially prominent friend, Mrs. Eugene Cobb, formerly Marianne Hunter, I succeeded in inducing Marilyn to have dinner at my home the next evening.

Marilyn arrived at my residence an hour ahead of the appointed time, and with that characteristic prattle which individualized her in high school days, began telling of her life with her husband, the professional basketball player, Harold Keene. She said she had enjoyed going with Harold during the playing season, but lately she had decided to remain in the city and earn some extra pin-money to add to their savings for a trip around the world. Finally I had the conversation directed to the whereabouts of our classmates.

My first surprise was her story of the happy landing of Dorothy Usrey and Ivan Taylor in making a non-stop flight from

New York to London in Ivan's new wingless torpedo. I was thrilled as she told some of the experiences of the nationally famous detective, Margaret Carr; but all of our formalities were forgotten as she related how, on one of her trips with Harold, she had found Tommy Krug and James Chandler operating a neat little restaurant near the Howard McClellan airport. When I had recovered from her vivid descriptions of Tommy as a cook, she added that Virgil Watkins and his wife, the former Lucille Butler, were students at this airport; also that Raymond Wright and Riley Sanders were grease monkeys here.

Louise Butler, who heads the alteration department of the Marlowe Salon, recently told Marilyn that the new silk importer, Ellen Wheaton, had brought word that Wayne Dudley and his wife, the former Kathryn Robertson, had gone to live on their ranch in Canada.

James Bledsoe had last been heard of as manager for a traveling show in which Lucille Hall was star actress. Alvin Richardson had joined the navy to see the world.

Of course, we both knew of the record Joe Dukes, the radio crooner, had made and that he and his stooge, the minstrel comedian Jimmy Phillippe, had an indefinite contract advertising the Sweeney candies, the company being controlled by the huge candy magnate, Bob Sweeney. On this program, Jimmy probably imitates Cantor's references to his wife Ida, when he speaks of his frau, Dorothy (Teasley).

Then we talked of the program on which Donna Evans, the violinist, appeared. This program was sponsored by the Cass Gas Company. Every one knew that oil had been discovered on the farm inherited by Theda Pigg of Cass. Marilyn said that Max Pirtle was the chief engineer of this new and prosperous field and that Frances Neilson was the efficient bookkeeper.

Marilyn broke into her old giggles as she told how Harold Exline and Billy DeNeve had devoted their time trying to perfect a new baggy spat that would fit ankles above fallen arches, and we agreed that Mina B. King's fate had been sealed long before she left high school.

I was utterly surprised to hear that Vincel Parks and Kenny King were gradually getting to the peak of success that Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire had attained. While rambling on the subject of movie stars, Marilyn told me of the tragic and yet good luck of Shirley Lloyd. It seemed that after Shirley was married and had lived in Denver, Colorado, for six years she found life very unexciting for such an adventurous girl. While in Reno securing her divorce, she met Mary E. Storey, now the wife of a producer of Warner Brothers Pictures. Mary Ellen invited Shirley to go home with her for a visit. While there, Shirley landed a contract with Warner Brothers.

At this point my maid, Mary Thompson, came in to announce that dinner was served. After dinner I suggested that we take in a show. Approaching the show, we found Joan Lovelace selling tickets, while Jean Marie Ambs, Jean Schofield, and Anna M. Beck served as ushers. The show consisted of a double feature and a news reel. The double feature starred the great lover, Robert Taylor with Mary Davies in "Lochinvar", also Helen Osborn and Luella Wilkes in "Lost Love". The news reel portrayed Ruth Pentland and Enid Moore in a spectacular exposition of deep-sea diving.

Upon leaving the show, we chanced to engage Jean Marie in conversation, and learned that she was rooming in an apartment house owned and operated by three old maids, Hazel Burch, Ruth Bonham, and Juanita Reynolds. They had found it was useless to live in hopes and so decided to earn their own living.

It was now growing late, though we had not noticed it before. With a sigh and a faint suggestion of tears, Marilyn bade me goodbye, promising that she would call upon me again soon.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Seniors of '37, reluctantly bequeath to the faculty, our perfect records in citizenship; to the juniors, our place in the senior roll; to the sophomores, our art of giggling; and to the freshmen, three more long years of hard work.

I, Joseph Ellsworth Dukes, hereby will my ready blushes to Eloise Boyd.

I, Eva Agness Thompson, willingly bequeath my ability to patch up lovers' quarrels to Rebah Griffiths.

I, Vincel Eunice Parks, will my Adonis figure to June McDonald.

I, Enid Eileen Moore, will my ability to flirt to Bonnie Brewer.

I, Mary Ellen Storey, will my yen for bragging to Willard Young.

I, Ellen Erlene Wheaton, will my membership in the seventh period class to Geneva Vandergriff.

I, Ivan Alphonso Taylor, will my curls to anyone who is always needing a permanent.

I, Anna Mae Beck, will my place in the Glee Club for the past four years to any freshman who has enough volume to fulfill the duties.

I, Dorothy Elizabeth Teasley, will my ducky giggling to Henrietta Raef.

I, Ruth Pentland, will my way with the teachers to Mary Pentland.

I, Hazel Burch, will my sweet disposition to Mary Brown.

I, Mary Elizabeth Davies, will my excellent citizenship grades to J. W. Schofield.

I, Jean Marie Ambs, will my road to Gambill to anyone who thinks he can get it.

I, Flora Lucille Hall, will my cute little giggle to Mary Ethel Smith.

I, Donna Eileen Evans, will my little pink crystal elephant to Haskell Osborn.

I, Everett Eugene Cobb, will my ability to argue with the teachers to Bob McCulloch, if he thinks he can teach them any more than I have.

I, Marilyn Jane Spinks, bestow upon Verna Hannum my ability to find out all the school scandal.

I, Mary Kathryn Thompson, will my love for the teachers to Mary Evelyn Riley.

I, Minnie Frances Neilson, will my bashful way to Betty Turpen.

I, Luella Jeanette Wilkes, bequeath my dancing feet to Mr. Irons.

We, James William Chandler and Virgil Bryon Watkins, do earnestly bestow our knowledge of Algebra III upon Mr. Stegemoller.

I, Adelia Mae Jones, hereby bequeath my frivolous and talkative nature to Virginia Rumple.

I, Marianne Hunter, will my inferiority complex to Lucretia Seldomridge.

I, Harold Exline, will my dapper appearance to Harry Potts.

I, Edna Louise Butler, will my beautiful eyelashes to Gelena McClanahan.

I, Helen Louise Osborne, will my big feet to Georgianna Schadd.

I, Helen Kathryn Robertson, will my weakness for brown eyes to Doris Chambers.

I, Wayne Herrin Dudley, will my football suit to "Barney" Figg.

I, James Everett Bledsoe, having nothing to will, will lots of nothing to everybody.

I, Edwin Harold Keene, will my blossoming conceit to "Cocky" Mason.

I, Mary Jeane Schofield, will my best boy friend to Phyllis Risinger, providing she can win him.

I, Howard Mitchell McClellan, will part of my excellent technique as a salesman to Paul Kail.

I, William Francis DeNeve, will my football ability to "Sparkey" Exline.

I, Ruth Eleanor Bonham, will my talented singing to Frances Davis.

I, Eli Maxwell Pirtle, bequeath my best three-legged hound to "Strawberry" Cooper.

I, Margaret Isadora Carr, will my lovely blonde hair to Eunice Smallwood.

I, Avis Marie Kirkpatrick, will my mammoth stature to Ruth Scamihorn.

I, Shirley Martha Lloyd, will my ability to type and read shorthand to Miss Braatz.

I, Joan Elizabeth Lovelace, will my errors in typing to Thomas Curry.

I, Dorothy Mable Usrey, will my perfect figure to Miss Mars.

I, Geneva Lucille Butler, will my grades in economics to anyone who likes to work for them.

I, Kenneth Paul King, will my ability to make A's in shorthand to anyone who thinks he can do as well.

We, Thomas Daniel Krug and Alvin Leo Richardson, will our ability for reaching school on time to "Bonecrusher" Smith.

I, James Roy Phillippe, will my long-nourished and well-developed instinct of disagreement, especially with Mr. Leaman, to Eugene Cooper.

I, James Oral Ragsdale, will my way with Miss Aikman to anyone who thinks he can do as well.

I, Edgar Riley Sanders, will my exceedingly high merits to anyone who thinks he can make them.

I, Robert Vernon Sweeney, bequeath my ability to recite poetry to Miss Dugger.

I, James Robert Taylor, will my friendship with Mr. Stegemoller to anyone who wants it and will use it intelligently for his own good.

I, Mina Blanche King, will my red-headed romeo, to Juanita Meeks.

I, Theda Pauline Pigg, will my air of sweet innocence to Esther Roudebush.

I, Raymond Leslie Wright, will my appeal to the ladies to Billy Goodman.

I, Juanita Frances Reynolds, will my way with "red heads" to Geneva Vandergriff.

I, Leo Hope, bequeath my will power to keep my middle name to myself to anyone who has a worse one.

THRESHOLD OF LIFE

The deepening depths of the ocean,
  The widening width of the sea,
The lake's long, lonely motion,
  Typifies life to me.

We as Seniors shall behold it,
  In all its mysterious lore,
Who knows what we shall get,
  From life's unfathomable store?

With hope and confidence in man,
  A sincere trust in God,
We'll gain success, surely we can,
  If a straight path we'll trod.

So we go forth with banners waving,
  Banners of hope and cheer,
In our ambitions, our life enslaving,
  With never a falter nor a fear.

EUGENE CISCELL, '37

SENIOR PLAY

"The Haunted Chair", a three-act mystery farce, was presented by the seniors, April 9. The suspense was built around John Baxter, found dead in the living room of his country home. Soon after he was discovered, his relatives came scurrying to the mansion to hear the reading of his strange will, which he stipulated must take place immediately after his death. When these greedy relatives discovered that Baxter was obviously the victim of murder, they were dismayed for suspicion pointed directly to them. From that time on one mysterious occurrence after another took place. Comedy was furnished by Lizzie and Lazy Lee, darky servants, who fell in and out of trouble with clock-work regularity.

The cast of characters included: Adelia M. Jones, Dorothy Usrey, James R. Phillippe, Dorothy Teasley, Howard McClellan, Max Pirtle, Lucille Hall, Joe Dukes, Marilyn Spinks, James R. Taylor, Eugene Cobb, and Margaret Carr.

ORCHESTRA

Our school has been without an orchestra or band for four years. During this time, we have greatly felt the need for these instrumentations, but lack of time did not permit us to develop new talent.

At the beginning of this school year we decided to sacrifice our few spare moments for this cause. A drive was made to stir up interest in instruments. As a result, we have forty-four beginning students under the guidance of Miss Mitchell and Miss Dugger, in instrumental classes.

These students have progressed from squeaks and toots to real playing ability. We plan to have mass rehearsals the remainder of this school year, having for our project: a recital to be given for the purpose of buying more instruments for the school, and to furnish music for the Baccalaureate and Commencement Programs.

Since most of this material has come from junior high school and the lower classes of senior high school, we should have in the future an instrumental department of which to be proud.

JUNIOR PLAY

The play, "Demons in the Dark", a three-act mystery comedy, sponsored by the Juniors, proved a colossal event of the year. The story opened one dark, rainy night in a dilapidated old house on a supposedly haunted island. Sondra (Janice Spinks) and her sister Ethel (Verna Hannum) inherited this old house and arrived here on this night to spend the summer; Sondra also wished to hide from her two suitors, Bob Hildrith (Don Rumple), a bank clerk, and Deryk Vorse (Warren Driver), a wealthy young man. The two negro servants, Dido (Eloise Boyd) and Juniper (Lloyd Mason) with Lizzie (Reba Griffiths), the housekeeper, supplied humor in its keenest form. Mystery and a touch of pathos was added by the entire McTavish family, care-takers of this house: Duncan McTavish (Robert Boone), Janet McTavish (Juanita Wolfe), and a supposedly dead son, Robin (Harry Potts).

The plot deepened with the many weird and ghostly happenings until the climax revealed Deryk Vorse to be the notorious bandit and the haunted house, his hide-out. His capture cleared all the mysteries and also bridged the misunderstanding between Bob and Sondra.

LIVE WIRES

HI-Y

The Hi-Y Club of Union High was founded during the year 1928-29, under the leadership of Mr. Elliott Bratt. It began with twelve members and now has forty-seven, and has proved to be one of the most outstanding organizations.

The activities of this year are: a bingo party, turkey raffle, basketball games with Linton Hi-Y and Union Faculty, a joint meeting with Linton Hi-Y and Blue Tri. This year the Sullivan County Hi-Y Conference is to be held here.

Officers for this year are: Howard McClellan, President; James Chandler, Vice President; Harold Exline, Secretary; David Yung, Treasurer; James Bledsoe, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mr. John Irons, Sponsor.

Motto: Clean speech, clean sports, clean living, and clean scholarship.

Purpose: To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian Character.

BLUE TRI

The Blue Tri is composed of outstanding sophomore, junior, and senior girls. Its purpose, "To Find and Give the Best", is expressed in organized work for community, school, and individual members. Its social activities have been varied and interesting. The most interesting event is probably the party at which the Hi-Y and Blue Tri of Dugger entertain the Hi-Y and Blue Tri of Linton. There are 23 members in the club this year. The officers for '37 are: President, Joan Lovelace; Vice President, Marianne Hunter; Secretary, Doris Chambers; Treasurer, Dorothy Usrey; and Sponsor, Dorothy Dugger.

G. A. C.

The Girls' Athletic Club, one of the outstanding organizations of the school, holds as its purpose the health of a high school girl in physical, mental, and social development. To successfully fill her place in life, a girl must know and understand the human body and how to best use it for her own happiness and those with whom she is associated. This involves worthy use of leisure time so the association sponsors many forms of play in various games suitable for high school girls. There are 39 members; the officers for this year are: President, Marilyn Spinks; Vice President, Olive Houpt; Secretary, Imogene Steiner; Treasurer, Frances Neilson.

The girls are active throughout the whole year, the main incident of summer months being the camping trip.

PICKING TABLE

ATHLETICS

This is the story of the Black and Gold
And a fighting team that's hard to hold,
A bunch of boys who are glory bound
Who fight the battle round by round.

A school whose fame they hold most high,
And fighting hearts that never say die.
As they sweep the county here and there,
They are always fighting fair and square.

Such are the Bulldogs of Union High
With plenty of pep and a victory cry,
They start right out at the signal go,
And all teams call them a worthy foe.

They always go out to win the game,
But win or lose they play the same—
Good sports in victory, good sports in defeat,
A good combination that's hard to beat.

Big Harold Keene, who captains the team,
Heads an offense of which a coach dreams,
Keene is a veteran of four year's play,
And he's in there fighting, let come what may.

"Strawberry" Cooper takes the defensive prize—
He whittles the big ones down to his size.
He always starts smiling when the going gets tough,
And then he starts doing his stuff.

Harold Exline is chuck full of dribbles and fakes,
And for follow-in baskets he has what it takes.
"Bus" Chandler is steady and cool in a pinch,
And on the defense he gives back not an inch.

Now little Joe Dukes is short and quick,
But in spite of his size he sure does click.
Howard McClellan is heady, steady, and cool;
And on the defense he's sure hard to fool.

Lloyd Mason's a scrapper wherever he plays,
And he'll be plenty tough, one of these days.
He shoots at the basket far out on the floor;
At first he would miss it but not any more.

Now, if you'll bear with me for just a short time,
I'll tell of our sophomores and finish this rhyme.
They're big, they're ugly, they're rough, and they're tough;
But never-the-less, they have lots of stuff.

The first one we notice as they file past
Is lengthy Bob Livingston, clever and fast.
Next comes Paul Hiatt with size and art speed;
He plays any position, whatever the need.

Then Cobb plays the pivot and handles it well,
Just ask any girls, they all think he's swell.
Last but not least we have Deckard at guard,
He always comes thru when the going is hard.

There's just one left and that is the coach—
He is a good man and nice to approach.
We deem him greatest of all the pack,
If you don't know his name just call him "Hack".

Thus ends our story; this season near past—
For some on the team, next game may be last;
But life is a game that goes on and on
And in it are victories that have to be won.

So let me in passing, like the poet of old,
Leave with you a message that's often been told—
This moral I'll give you if one I may tell
Just stay in there fighting and all will be well.

JUNIOR HIGH ATHLETICS

From the time of its first introduction as a school sport, the value of basketball has been questioned by those who can justify only the academic program. The criticisms that they offer, although partly justified, are based, not on knowledge, but on a lack of knowledge of the subject. They see only the evil that results from a few situations, and fail to see the good that results in hundreds of cases. That we may in a measure meet their arguments and justify our aims in athletics, we offer the following resume of basketball in the junior high school.

For the past two years, the athletic activities have been directed by Mr. Moore, who has studied coaching at Indiana State Teachers College. He has developed splendid teams during this time, and their records will warrant the truth of this statement. Most of the boys who took part in junior high athletics won berths on the second team when they entered senior high school last fall.

This year the team competed in the Wabash Valley Grade Tournament at Carlisle. Not only has the team gained practical experience in the fundamentals of basketball, but character has been developed through the broadening influence of the new contacts made. Mr. Moore has based his activities upon building character by emphasizing sportsmanship, moral education, the proper respect for others, and the ability to take defeat.

The services of Mr. Ringer at all of the games was appreciated. He shared in all our victories, as well as our defeats. His high moral and social standards helped in the forming of better attitudes and character.

This division of the athletic department has sensed how true the axiom, "After all, when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name, he writes not that you won or lost; but how you played the game."

Football at Union High School began in '29. For some time students and a few fans had felt rather envious of the neighboring schools that sponsored football, and they were willing to do all in their power to help organize such a sport for Union's boys. Patrons of the community were so enthused about the prospect that approximately $375 was donated to help the school buy the necessary equipment. Even with this backing, skill in kicking the "old pigskin" over the horizontal bars has never held the keen interest for many of the fans of the community that basketball has held. Each season, however, a large number of boys turn out for gridiron training.

This year Ishmael Osborn had complete charge of coaching this division of athletics. Most of the boys who comprised the squad of "37" lacked experience and the majority of them were underclassmen. Although this was not conducive to victorious scores, it greatly enhanced next year's gridiron prospects. Although the record for the past season does not boast a large numbers of games won, the boys gained invaluable experience and in every game they left a good account of themselves.

In all the history of Dugger High School, our students have taken an active interest in various types of athletics. A few years ago probably the most outstanding sport was baseball, and basketball was just in its infancy. Girls and boys, interested in basketball, practiced at noon and of evenings on a cinder court at the Central Building. Later the basement of the First Christian Church was rented for indoor contests.

Seemingly little progress was made, but in '22 the high school students moved into the new building which had just been finished and had the much desired feature—a gymnasium.

At this time Audie Phillippe took charge of the ambitious athletes, and Union began to make hardwood history. Later Mr. Small had charge of the basketeers, who were fast winning fame.

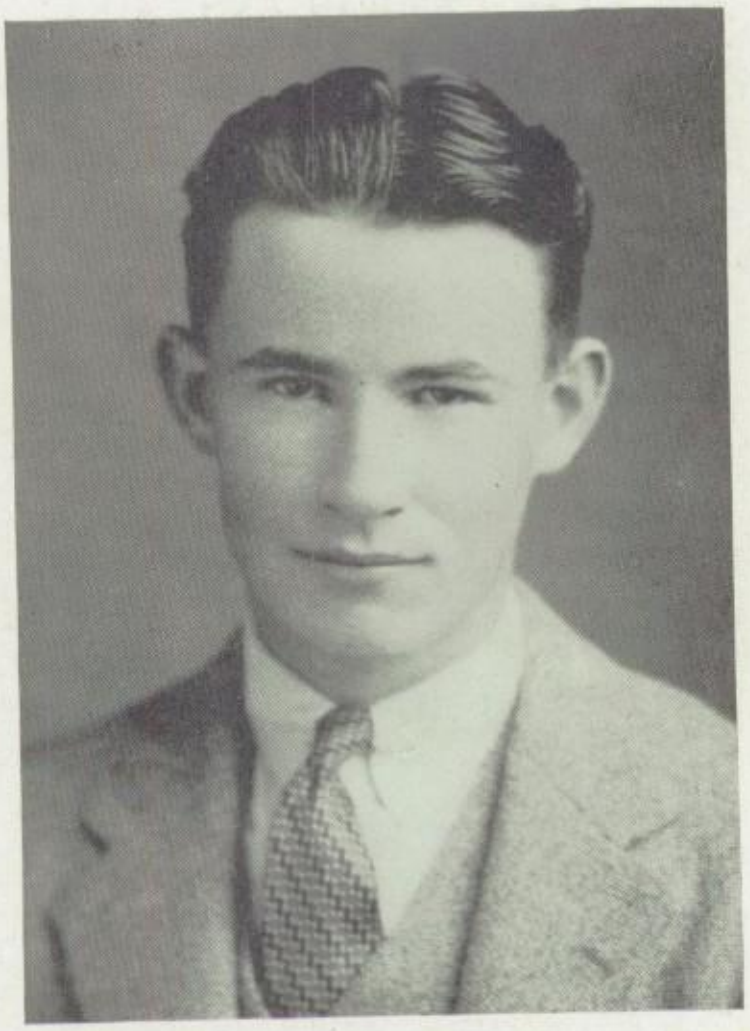
As basketball forced its way into the lime-light, baseball began to be forgotten and gradually dropped out of the extra curricular activities.

In '28 "Hack" Osborn replaced Coach Small. During the nine years Mr. Osborn has served Union, he has helped to develope many good athletes and has done unestimable work in helping boys obtain a correct outlook upon training and sportsmanship. Some of his own products have continued their training elsewhere then returned to assist him developing a first class athletic department. Among those who have returned are Tom Leaman, coach of B team basketball, and Ishmael Osborn, football coach.

Since we have an eight month term of school, little time can be given to track, tennis, and some of the other sports; but we hope to be able to participate in them in the near future. The progress which is now being made promises a much brighter outlook on activities as a whole with a broader field of athletics being offered.

The yell leaders, also, deserve a word of acclaim for their loyalty and valiant efforts in attempting to stir the enthusiasm of the many sport fans. We feel that a team may be made better by the hailing and cheering of an enthusiastic crew of onlookers, while they in turn must be boasted mightily by a competent leader. What could be more arousing that a trio of enthusiasts, bedecked in the colors of our school, fighting to obtain the cheers of the many watching from the side lines? This year the efforts of these energetic boosters have not been futile. May the walls of old Union always resound with the spirit of victory as they have heretofore been accustomed!

IN MEMORIAM



FOREST STUTHARD

Dec. 17, 1916—Dec. 31, 1936

Members of the class of nineteen-hundred thirty-five, because of their high esteem and respect for Forest, feel it fitting and proper that they should in some small way express their tribute.

In school he was respected for his capacity of leadership, especially in class governmental affairs. His journalistic talent, as portrayed by his editorship of the Union Static and the Year Book in '35, was an asset which he might have used later. His ability of leadership, based on the theory "try any thing once," was a most costly way to achieve his goal; but by such experiences, he was better prepared for the next problem.

"Vaco Con Doios"

Yon sun that sets upon the sea
I follow in his flight;
Farewell awhile to him and thee,
My native land—Good night!

Here's a sigh to those who favor me,
And a smile to those who hate;
And whatever shall befall me,
Shall I accept as fate.

Farewell to things grown dear to me,
For I must journey West.
There's a voice that is calling me,
To the game that I love best.

And I pray thee, Only Just,
For a life that's brief yet strong,
Let my end come when it must,
Like an interrupted song.
